

About the Authors

Forrest “Woody” Mosten has been in private mediation practice since 1979, is an international master trainer in mediation and collaborative practice, and is recognized as “The Father of Unbundling.” Woody is certified as a Specialist in Family Law by the California State Bar Board of Legal Specialization and handles family law matters involving substantial assets and high-conflict parenting matters both as a lawyer representing clients and as a neutral mediator—and he never goes to court! Woody is the author of three other books, Collaborative Divorce Handbook (2009), Mediation Career Guide (2001), and Unbundling Legal Services (2000) and numerous articles. Since 1989, he has been Chair of the International Client Consultation Competition that bears his name (www.brown-mosten.com). Woody is the recipient of the ABA Lawyer as Problem Solver Award, the ABA Lifetime Award for Legal Access, the New York State Council on Divorce Mediation Lifetime Service Award, and the Los Angeles County Bar Conflict Prevention Award, and he was named Peacemaker of the Year by the Southern California Mediation Association. Since 2002, Woody has been an Adjunct Professor of UCLA School of Law where he teaches Mediation, Lawyer as Peacemaker, and Family Law Practice: A Non-Litigation Approach. Woody can be reached at Mosten@MostenMediation.com.

Elizabeth Potter Scully is a founding partner at Jacobson Scully Shebby LLP. Her practice is devoted to family law and includes mediation, collaborative law, litigation, drafting pre- and post-marital agreements, and court-appointed minor’s counsel work. She is certified as a Specialist in Family Law by the California State Bar Board of Legal Specialization. She received her AB in Classics (Latin) magna cum laude from Harvard in 1993 and her JD from the University of California Hastings College of the Law in 1996. She teaches clinical courses in mediation at UCLA School of Law. Ms. Scully frequently lectures on family law and dispute resolution issues. She serves on the Family Law Executive Committee of the Beverly Hills Bar Association and on the Board of Levitt & Quinn Family Law Center, a nonprofit law firm serving the working poor.