

CONTENTS

PART ONE The context of international HRM 1

01 Introduction and background to international HRM 3

Daniel Wintersberger

About this book 3

The context of IHRM 4

Case study: Deregulation and the global civil aviation industry 6

The field of IHRM: approaches and level of analysis 7

Structure of this book 9

References 12

02 The cultural context of international HRM 13

Daniel Wintersberger

Introduction 13

Methodological underpinnings 15

Measuring cultural differences 18

Conclusions 25

References 26

03 Leadership across cultural contexts 29

Avis Tam

Introduction 29

What is leadership? 30

Cross-cultural leadership 35

Case study: Global leadership development in a global fashion retailer 41

Case study: Global leadership in the ‘fast-fashion’ industry: the case of Gap 43

Conclusions 44

References 45

04 Cross-cultural communication 52

James Baba Abugre

Introduction 52

Cross-cultural communication in international business 54

Cross-cultural training and cross-cultural communication 58

Case study: Insights from subsidiary locations in Ghana 60

Conclusions 66

References 67

05 The institutional context of international HRM 70

Daniel Wintersberger

Introduction 70

The background to institutional analysis 71

The varieties of capitalism approach 74

Case study: Transplanting Japanese models of HRM to the UK 84

Case study: The Volkswagen system of corporate governance 89

Conclusions 91

References and further reading 92

06 Global labour governance and core labour standards 97

Christina Niforou

Introduction 97

Public forms of labour governance 98

Private forms of labour governance 102

Local impact of global labour governance 104

Case study: Compliance with the Telefonica international framework agreement 107

Conclusions 112

References 113

PART TWO Functional areas of international HRM 117

- 07 International recruitment, selection and talent management 119
Peter Foss
- Introduction 119
 - Defining talent 121
 - Talent management process 122
 - Strategy, culture and structure 123
 - Employer and talent brand 124
 - Diagnosing and planning 126
 - Acquiring and selecting 129
 - Case study: Recruitment and selection at Skullcandy 135
 - Managing, developing and retaining 138
 - Case study: Talent management at National Instruments 140
 - Conclusions 142
 - References 143
- 08 International staffing in multinational companies 146
James Baba Abugre
- Introduction 146
 - Staffing composition and practices in international business/management 148
 - Cross-cultural training and development of international assignees 153
 - Cross-cultural training programmes 155
 - Cross-cultural adjustment successes and failures of expatriates in the subsidiaries 158
 - Case study: Cross-cultural staffing in Ghana 160
 - Conclusions 166
 - References 166
- 09 International reward 172
Daniel Wintersberger
- Introduction 172

Managing pay	173
Case study: Market-leading compensation at a low-cost airline: the case of Southwest	174
Determining pay levels	174
Equity in compensation	179
Reward beyond pay	182
Case study: Flexibility as a reward with mutual benefits at BT Group PLC	187
Reward across cultural and institutional contexts	189
Case study: Home working and employee performance in China	191
Case study: Total reward at Unilever	192
Conclusions	194
References	194

10 International training and workforce skills 199

Daniel Wintersberger

Introduction	199
Global labour market developments and their impact on workplace-level training	200
Case study: The ‘deficit’ view of training at a liberal market economy low-cost airline – Ryanair	204
Varieties of capitalism and workforce skills development	208
State-managed vocational training and the Taiwanese economic miracle	208
Case study: National training infrastructure and competitive advantage in biscuit manufacturing	211
Conclusions	214
References	215

11 International employee relations 218

Geraint Harvey

Introduction	218
What are the dimensions of employee relations?	219

The labour process and labour power	221
Frames of reference and structured antagonism	223
Degree of influence	224
Management style	226
Globalization and employee relations	227
Case study: International civil aviation and employee relations	228
Conclusions	234
Further reading suggestions	236
References	236

12 Work organization and job design across national contexts 243

Daniel Wintersberger and Jorge Muniz Jr

Introduction	243
Work organization over time and across continents	245
Case study: Scientific management in the global fast-food industry	249
The impact of flexible specialization on HRM	253
Case study: Job redesign and the Swedish model of production	254
Case study: Towards 'lean' thinking: the Toyota production system	256
Case study: Transferring lean management to Toyota plants in Brazil	260
Conclusions	264
References	265

13 Conclusions: change or continuance in national systems of HRM? 269

Introduction	269
Different trajectories between emerging and advanced industrial economies	271
Globalization and the future of IHRM	274
Convergence or divergence in national systems of HRM?	276
References	278