CONTENTS

PART ONE The learning technology landscape 1

01 A learning utopia? 3

References 6

02 How did we get here? 7

The promise of learning technologies 9
The schoolroom assumption 14
Key takeaways 16
References 16

03 How we learn at work 19

Informal learning 20
70:20:10 21
Blended learning 23
Continuous learning 23
So how do we learn at work? 24
Key takeaways 26
References 26

04 What are learning technologies and why bother with them? 29

What are 'learning technologies'? 29
The demand for learning technologies 32
The drivers for adopting learning technologies 34
Substitution or addition? 39
Key takeaways 41
References 42

05 Platforms, content and communication 45

Private content platforms 49
Public content platforms 52
Individual learning tools 55
Key takeaways 58
References 59

06 Types of content 61

Freely available content 63
Generic content 64
Curated content sets 65
User-generated content (UGC) 66
Content created internally 67
Commissioned content 68
Key takeaways 70
References 70

PART TWO Implementing learning technologies 73

07 Change, models and process 75

Do we really need another model? 76
Existing models of implementation and change 77
A challenge to the idea of change management 83
How is learning technology different? 85
A process model for learning technology implementations 87
Understand 90
Plan 91
Test 92
Implement 94
Assess 95
Sustain 97
The Partnership Principle 98
Key takeaways 99
References 100

08 APPA: Four characteristics of success 103

An APPA implementation: The Hershey Company 105
Establishing the need and aim 106
Networks, stakeholders and resisters 108
Implementation and process impact 109
The importance of the team 110
Top-level support 111
Demonstrating APPA 113
Ensuring the four characteristics 114
Key takeaways 115

09 Aim 117

The ideal and the reality 118
Hard value and the use, misuse and abuse of 'ROI' 127
Perceived value and performance consulting 134
Key takeaways 142
References 143

10 People focus 145

People at the heart of an implementation 146
Key groups 155
Stakeholder analysis 157
Communication 161
The launch 166
Sustaining the implementation 170
A persuasive pitch 172
Key takeaways 173
References 174

11 Perspective 175

Building an internal organizational perspective 180
Choosing to listen well 183
Choosing whom to talk to 185
Perspective via experience 188
Key takeaways 192
References 193

12 Attitude 195

The art of pragmatic compromise 196
Risk, decisions and judgement 197
The role of leadership 198
Kelly Johnson and the Skunk Works 200
Going 'semi-rogue' 201
Context, perspective and attitude 204
Going your own way 205
Rebels with a cause 209
Key takeaways 210
References 211

PART THREE What's next? 213

13 Future learning technologies 215

Evidence of the future today 217
The future is different, large and well-funded 223
A note of caution 225
Key takeaways 227
References 227

14 The future roles of L&D 231

Life without L&D? 231
New L&D, new roles 234
Working with future learning technologies 236
Key takeaways 241
References 242

Index 243