
Table of Contents

Prologue	v
Acknowledgements	xvii
Biographies	xxvii
List of Tables and Figures	xxxvii
Table of Cases	xxxix
Table of Legislation	xlvi
1. Introduction	1
1.1 The Context: Market, Legal and Regulatory Trends Shaping the Media and Communications Sector in India and Internationally.....	1
1.2 Why Focus on Ownership and Control?	3
1.3 Scope.....	4
1.4 Sources of Further Information.....	6
2. Achieving Policy Objectives	7
2.1 Introduction	7
2.2 Guiding Principles	8
2.3 Instruments of Competition and Regulatory Policy—Mapping out the Landscape.....	10
2.4 Competition Law	11
2.5 Sector Regulation	11
2.6 Merger Control.....	12
2.7 Convergence	12
2.8 ‘Technology Neutral’	14
2.9 Regulation: Sector-specific vs Competition Law.....	15
2.10 EU Experience	16
2.11 Allocation of Competences between Sector Regulator and Competition Authority.....	17
2.11.1 Regulatory ‘Models’	17
2.11.2 Indian Experience	17
2.11.3 UK Experience	18
2.12 Restrictions on Competition.....	19
2.13 Market Power	21
2.14 Conclusions and Implications for Policy.....	22
3. Market Delineation and Definition in Media	25
3.1 Introduction	25
3.2 The Role of Market Definition in Competition Analysis.....	27

3.3	The Role of the Consumer in Media Regulation Debates.....	31
3.3.1	The Consumer and Different Types of Regulation.....	31
3.3.2	The Consumer vs the Citizen	32
3.3.3	Rationale for Regulation.....	32
3.4	Challenges in Identifying Relevant Markets in the Media Sector	34
3.4.1	Market Definition and the New Media.....	34
3.4.2	Market Definition in Fast-moving Markets	35
3.4.3	Limitations of the SSNIP Test	36
3.4.4	Products and Services	37
3.4.5	Identifying the Limits of Convergence	37
3.4.6	Relationship with Public Interest and Plurality	39
3.4.7	The Social Dimension and Information Gap.....	40
3.4.8	A Lot at Stake.....	40
3.5	Between Theory and Pragmatism: Identifying Relevant Markets in Practice	41
3.5.1	Information Limits.....	41
3.5.2	Demand-side Considerations.....	42
3.5.3	Geographic Boundaries	43
3.5.4	Divergent Approaches.....	44
3.5.5	Limits of Precedent	45
3.5.6	Effect on Market Participants and the Quest for Predictability.....	46
3.6	Case Study: Market Definition under the EU Communications Regulatory Framework	47
3.6.1	The EU Regulatory Framework: Introduction.....	47
3.6.2	Evolving Approach.....	48
3.6.3	Some Remaining Difficulties.....	51
3.7	Towards a Coherent Framework for Market Analysis in the Media and Communications Sector?.....	52
4.	Competition Law	55
4.1	Introduction	55
4.2	Agreements	55
4.2.1	Indian Competition applied to Cartel-like Behaviour in the Media Sector.....	55
4.2.2	The Concept of an 'Appreciable Adverse Effect' on Competition has been Construed Widely to Capture Local and Regional Effects.....	56
4.3	Abuse of Dominance	57
4.3.1	Challenges of applying Competition Law in the Media and Communications Sector	57
4.3.2	No General Exception for Protection of IPR.....	58
4.3.3	Indian Competition Law has already been applied to Abuse of Dominance in the Media and Communications Sector	59

4.3.4	Complaints-led Cases.....	59
4.3.5	International Dimension	60
4.4	Initial Conclusions	62
5.	Media Ownership and Control.....	63
5.1	Introduction	63
5.2	Protecting Competitiveness and Pluralism	63
5.2.1	What is Pluralism or Plurality?.....	63
5.2.2	Relationship between Pluralism and Competition Law.....	65
5.2.3	Initial Conclusions on Competition and Plurality Tests.....	66
5.3	Indian Merger Control in the Media and Communications Sector	68
5.3.1	Introduction.....	68
5.3.2	Indian Merger Reviews in Media and Communications	69
5.3.3	Merger Control and Minority Interests	70
5.3.4	Cases Involving Corporate Restructurings	70
5.3.5	Ongoing Development of the Indian Competition Law and Merger Control Framework	71
5.4	Comparative Survey of Regulatory Models.....	71
5.4.1	Methodology.....	71
5.4.2	Countries Surveyed	71
5.4.3	Regime Type	72
5.5	Case Studies.....	74
5.5.1	Model A: No Media Ownership Rules and Sole Application of Competition Rules in Merger Control.....	74
5.5.2	Model B: Media Ownership Rules and Sole Application of Competition Rules in Merger Control	75
5.5.3	Model C: Media Ownership Rules and Modified Application of Competition Rules in Merger Control.....	76
5.6	The Ongoing Debate on Media Plurality	77
5.6.1	Academic Perspectives.....	78
5.6.2	Regulatory Policy Perspectives.....	79
5.7	Newspapers—A Special Case?.....	80
5.7.1	Background.....	80
5.7.2	Drivers of Consolidation.....	80
5.7.3	Paid News, Politics and Pluralism	81
5.7.4	Emerging Insights from the UK	82
5.8	Conclusions and Implications for Policy.....	84
6.	Vertical Integration	87
6.1	Introduction	87
6.2	A Schematic of the Media Value Chain	87

6.3	Vertical Integration in an Economic Context	88
6.3.1	Three Phases of Economic and Competition Policy Thought	88
6.3.2	A Last Preliminary: Vertical Integration and Vertical Restraints.....	90
6.3.3	The Treatment of Vertical Restraints under Indian Competition Law.....	91
6.3.4	Economic Reasoning of Vertical Integration: The Initial Sceptical View.....	92
6.3.5	Efficiency Gain of Vertical Integration: Avoiding Double Marginalisation	92
6.3.6	More Nuanced Post-Chicago View	93
6.3.7	Efficiency Gain of Vertical Integration: Flexibility to Technological Change	94
6.4	Vertical Competition Issues in Mergers in the Media and Communications Sector.....	96
6.4.1	Access to Content	96
6.4.2	Access to Infrastructure	97
6.4.3	Leverage	97
6.4.4	Network Effects	97
6.4.5	Removal of a Maverick	98
6.5	Vertical Integration and Merger Remedies.....	98
6.5.1	Remedies Typology	98
6.5.2	EU Experience	99
6.5.3	US Experience.....	102
6.6	Conclusions and Implications for Policy.....	103
7.	Cable Sector: Competition and Regulation in an International Comparative Perspective.....	106
7.1	Introduction	106
7.2	Economic, Competition and Regulatory Perspectives.....	109
7.2.1	Structure of the Broadcasting Industry	110
7.2.2	Theories of Regulation.....	111
7.2.3	Dealing with Market Power	112
7.2.4	Access Issues	114
7.2.5	Merger Regulation.....	115
7.2.6	Public Interest.....	115
7.2.7	Convergence	116
7.3	Regime Comparison	116
7.4	Conclusions and Implications for Policy.....	116
8.	The Impact of the Internet.....	125
8.1	Introduction	125
8.2	Online's Stage of Development	129
8.3	Effect of the Internet on Media.....	130

8.4	Case Study: News.....	130
8.4.1	News Provision.....	131
8.4.2	News Consumption.....	133
8.5	Conclusions and Implications for Policy.....	134
9.	Shaping the Future Regulatory Agenda in India and Internationally.....	136
9.1	Introduction: Ongoing Consultation and Debate on the Shape of Media and Communications Regulation Internationally.....	136
9.2	Indian Experience and Recent TRAI Consultations.....	137
9.2.1	Consultation on Media Cross-ownership.....	137
9.2.2	Consultation on Monopoly and Market Dominance in Cable TV services.....	138
9.3	EU Experience: Towards Pan-European Regulation of Plurality?.....	140
9.4	UK Experience: Where do we Stand after NewsCorp/BSkyB and Leveson?.....	142
9.4.1	Ofcom Review of Plurality.....	142
9.4.2	Ongoing Consultation—House of Lords Select Committee Call for Evidence.....	144
9.5	Australian Experience: Media Reform Tried, Tested and Failed.....	147
9.5.1	Proposed Reforms.....	147
9.5.2	Summary of the Proposed Reforms.....	148
9.6	US Experience: How to Measure Media Diversity?.....	156
9.7	Conclusion.....	157
10.	Conclusions and Implications for Policy.....	159
10.1	Introduction.....	159
10.2	Ten Recommendations for Competitive and Diverse Media Markets.....	160
10.2.1	Develop a Strong Law that Respects Legal and Economic Principles.....	160
10.2.2	Stay Vigilant to Competition Issues.....	161
10.2.3	Recognise the Role of Market Definition in all its (Product, Geographic, Temporal and Innovation) Dimensions.....	162
10.2.4	Question and Test Traditional Approaches in Converging Media and Communications Markets.....	164
10.2.5	Ensure that the Identification of Specific Market Failures or Concerns is based on Robust Economic and Empirical Evidence rather than a Perceived ‘Problem’.....	165
10.2.6	Mitigate the Risk of Political Capture.....	166
10.2.7	Maintain Diverse Expertise among Bodies likely to hear Relevant Cases.....	166
10.2.8	Build and Strengthen Alliances with all Interest Groups affected by Competition Law and Regulation.....	168

10.2.9	Develop Cooperation with Regulators Globally.....	169
10.2.10	Maintain a Dynamic Approach	170
	Appendix 1: Achieving Policy Objectives	171
	Appendix 2: Media Ownership and Merger Control.....	175
	Appendix 3: Newspapers: The Story of the UK Regional Press.....	186
	Appendix 4: Cable Country Reviews	206
	Appendix 5: Online Behaviour in India	266
	Appendix 6: Media and Communications Regulatory Reform Internationally Supplementary Material.....	272
	Bibliography	276
	Glossary	280
	Index	285

<http://www.pbookshop.com>