

Table of Contents

Notes on the Contributors	v
Introduction
Hiroya Nakakubo & Takashi Araki	1
I The Theme and Its Background	1
II Suggested Discussion Points	2
[A] Introduction	2
[B] Regulatory Schemes for Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy	3
[C] Employer's Legitimate Business Purposes?	3
[D] Personal Information and Privacy Protection in the Hiring Process	3
[E] Personal Information and Privacy Protection during the Employment Relations	4
[F] Personal Information and Privacy Protection after the Employment Relations	4
[G] Evaluation and Future Directions	4
III Some Observations	4
CHAPTER 1
A Thin Wall of Privacy Protection, with Gaps and Cracks: Regulation of Employees' Personal Information and Workplace Privacy in Australia
Anthony Forsyth	7
§1.01 Introduction	7
§1.02 Regulatory Schemes for Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy	10
[A] Australian Constitution and State/Territory Human Rights Charters	10
[B] Common Law Protection of Privacy	11
[C] Privacy Protection under Federal Law: The Privacy Act	12

Table of Contents

	[D] Employee Records Exemption from the Privacy Act	12
	[E] 2012 Amendments to the Privacy Act	14
	[F] Remedies under the Privacy Act	16
§1.03	Personal Information Protection in the Hiring Process	16
	[A] Overview	16
	[B] Application of the Privacy Act to Recruitment/Hiring	17
	[C] Anti-discrimination Law Provisions	17
	[D] Health Screening	18
	[E] Criminal Records	19
§1.04	Personal Information and Privacy Protection during the Employment Relations	21
	[A] Overview	21
	[B] Operation of the Privacy Act Employee Records Exemption during Employment	21
	[C] Workplace Surveillance/Monitoring of Employees	22
	[1] Privacy Act Regulation of Monitoring	22
	[2] Monitoring and Surveillance Legislation	24
	[D] Drug and Alcohol Testing	27
	[E] Dismissal of Employees for Social Media-Related Misconduct	28
	[1] Employee's Conduct Justified Dismissal	28
	[2] Employee Succeeded in Unfair Dismissal Claim	29
	[F] Employers' Obligations to Maintain Employee Records under the Fair Work Act	31
§1.05	Personal Information and Privacy Protection after the Employment Relations	32
§1.06	Conclusion	33
CHAPTER 2
The Employee Privacy Protection in China
	Kungang Li	35
§2.01	Introduction	35
§2.02	Regulatory Schemes for Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy	37
	[A] Constitution	37
	[B] Civil Law Legislations	38
	[C] Labor Law	39
	[D] International Conventions	39
	[E] Criminal Laws	40
	[F] Remedies and Punishments	40
§2.03	The Protection of Personal Information and Privacy in the Hiring Process	41
	[A] Job Advertisement and Interview Process	42
	[B] Medical Check	44
	[C] Discrimination in the Process of Hiring	46

Table of Contents

	[1] Discriminations Relating to Sex and Age	46
	[2] Discriminations Relating to Diseases	46
	[3] Genetic Discrimination	47
§2.04	The Protection of Personal Information and Privacy during Employment	48
	[A] Personal Information Collection during Employment	48
	[1] Annual Medical Check	48
	[2] The Collection of Other Information	49
	[B] Surveillance in Workplaces	50
	[1] Surveillance	50
	[2] Reasons for Controlling	50
	[3] Balance of Interests	51
§2.05	Personal Information and Privacy Protection in Post-termination Period	53
	[A] Personal Information Protection	53
	[B] Privacy Protection	54
§2.06	Comments and Foresights	54
	[A] Comments on the Current Protection of Personal Information and Privacy	54
	[B] The Future Legislation and Directions	56
	[1] Protection Would Be Strengthened in Civil Laws	56
	[2] Labor Law Protections Would Get More Attentions	56
CHAPTER 3
Protection of Employee's Personal Information and Privacy in France
	Benjamin Dabosville	59
§3.01	Introduction	59
§3.02	Regulatory Schemes for the Protection of the Employees' Personal Information and Privacy	60
	[A] Primary Basis of the Protection	60
	[B] Protection Rules	61
	[1] A Dual System	62
	[a] Protection by the Information Technology, Data Files and Civil Liberties Act	63
	[b] Protection by the Labor Code	64
	[2] A "Europeanized" Protection	65
§3.03	The Balances of Interests	66
	[A] The Collect of the Employees' Personal Information	66
	[B] Decision Related to the Personal Life of the Employee	67
§3.04	Personal Information and Privacy Protection in the Employment Relationship	69
	[A] Personal Information Protection in the Hiring Process	69
	[1] Control of the Employer's Decision	69
	[2] Gradation of the Protection	70

Table of Contents

[B]	Personal Information and Privacy Protection during the Employment Relations	71
[1]	The Collect of Personal Information	72
[a]	Inspection	72
[b]	Surveillance	74
[2]	The Use of Personal Information	76
[C]	Personal Information and Privacy Protection after the Employment Relations	76
§3.05	Conclusion	77
CHAPTER 4
	Data Protection in the Employment Relationship: The German View
	Gregor Thüsing, Gerrit Forst, Stephan Pötters & Johannes Traut	79
§4.01	Introduction	79
§4.02	At a Glance: General Principles Governing German and European Data Protection Law	81
[A]	Justifying the Processing of Personal Data (Section 4 BDSG)	81
[B]	Fundamental Principles Governing the Processing of the Employee's Personal Data by the Employer	81
§4.03	National Data Protection Law within the European Regulatory Framework: It Is All about Proportionality	82
§4.04	Processing of Personal Data under Section 32 BDSG	86
§4.05	The Data Subject's Consent (Section 4A BDSG)	87
[A]	Freely Given	87
[B]	Specific	88
[C]	Informed	88
[D]	Indication of the Data Subject's Wishes	89
[E]	Consent in the Employment Context	89
§4.06	Risk-Based Approach: Different Categories of Personal Data and Different Purposes for Processing Them	91
§4.07	Central Issues of Data Protection Law in the Employment Relationship	92
[A]	Personal Information in the Hiring Process / Job Interviews	92
[B]	Video Surveillance / CCTV in the Workplace	93
[1]	Applicable Provisions of the Federal Data Protection Act (BDSG)	94
[2]	Legitimate Purposes	94
[3]	Proportionality Test	94
[C]	Surveillance of Internet and E-Mail at the Workplace	95
[D]	Transfer of Data in International Corporate Groups	97
§4.08	Some Remarks on the Proposed Reform of the European Legal Framework	99
§4.09	List of Important Cases	101

Table of Contents

[A]	The Mother of All Data Protection Cases: The Census Verdict of the Federal Constitutional Court	101
[B]	Telephone Surveillance I (Federal Constitutional Court)	102
[C]	Online Searches and Reconnaissance of the Internet (Federal Constitutional Court)	102
[D]	Search of the Employee's Locker (Federal Labour Court)	103
[E]	The Video Surveillance / CCTV Cases of the Federal Labour Court	104
[F]	Data Processing on the Basis of an Employer/Works Council Agreement (Federal Labour Court)	104
§4.10	Enforcing Data Protection Law: Important Supervision and Advisory Bodies	105
[A]	The Federal Commissioner for Data Protection and Freedom of Information (Bundesbeauftragte für den Datenschutz und die Informationsfreiheit , BfDI)	105
[B]	The Federal Office for Information Security (Bundesamt für Sicherheit in der Informationstechnik , BSI)	106
[C]	The Data Protection Working Party Established by Article 29 of the EC-Data Protection Directive	106
[D]	The European Data Protection Supervisor: (EDPS)	106
 CHAPTER 5
	Protection of Personal Information and Privacy in the Japanese Workplace
	Ryoko Sakuraba	109
§5.01	Introduction	109
§5.02	Regulatory Schemes for the Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy	112
[A]	Constitution and the Law of Tort	112
[B]	International Instruments	114
[1]	OECD Guidelines and APEC Framework	114
[2]	ILO Code of Practice	115
[C]	Municipal Legislation	115
[1]	The Act on the Protection of Personal Information	115
[2]	Enforcement	117
§5.03	Purpose of the Acquisition and Utilisation of Employees' Personal Information	119
[A]	Recruitment	119
[1]	Investigation of the Political Beliefs of Job Applicants	119
[2]	Dismissal for Failure to Disclose Personal Information	120
[3]	Labour Administration Guidance	121
[4]	Blood Tests for Job Applicants	121
[B]	Disciplinary Action	122
[C]	Effective Human Resource Management Including Job Allocation	123

Table of Contents

	[D] Transfer of Employees	124
	[E] Health and Safety Compliance	124
§5.04	Personal Information Protection in the Hiring Process	126
§5.05	Personal Information and Privacy Protection in Employment Relations	127
	[A] Conditions for Obtaining Employees' Personal Information	127
	[B] Surveillance with Electronic Devices	127
	[C] Disclosure of a Disciplined Employee's Name or Other Work-Related Information within the Firm	128
	[D] Employees' Right to Access, Confirm, and Request the Correction of Personal Information	129
§5.06	Personal Information and Privacy Protection after the Cessation of Employment Relations	130
§5.07	Conclusion	131
CHAPTER 6
Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy at a Crossroads in Korea
	Sung-Wook Lee	135
§6.01	Introduction	135
§6.02	Regulation Systems for the Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy	137
	[A] The Constitution	137
	[B] The Personal Information Protection Act as a General Law for Protection of Personal Information	139
	[1] Purpose and Scope of the Law	139
	[2] Scope	140
	[3] Principle of Personal Information Management	141
	[4] Relief Procedure in Case of Violation	142
	[C] The Protection of Communications Secrets Act	143
	[D] The Act on Promotion of Information and Communications Network Utilization and Information Protection, Etc.	144
	[E] The Act on the Protection, Use, Etc. of Location Information	145
	[F] The National Human Rights Commission Act	145
	[G] The Labor Legislations	146
§6.03	Relation between Employer's Interest, and Employees' Privacy and Personal Information	147
	[A] Legal Basis for Employee Privacy and Protection of Personal Information and Necessity of Balancing	147
	[B] Requirements for the Employer to Collect and Monitor the Employee's Personal Information	149
§6.04	Personal Information Protection in Recruitment Process	151
	[A] Consent from Applicant	151
	[B] Scope of Collectable Personal Information	152

Table of Contents

§6.05	Protection of Personal Information and Privacy in Employment	154
	[A] Collection and Use of Personal Information by Employer in the Process of Employment	154
	[B] Protection of Personal Information and Privacy Related to Electronic Surveillance System	155
	[1] Installation of CCTV, Etc. in the Workplace	155
	[2] Surveillance by Monitoring Internet and E-mail	156
	[3] Methods of Consent as Requirement for Adopting Electronic Surveillance System	158
	[C] Issues of Recognizing Employee's Right to Demand Inspection, Correction, Deletion of Personal Information	158
	[D] Issues of Personal Information of Retired Employees after the Employment Relations	160
§6.06	Conclusion	161
CHAPTER 7
	Protection of Employees' Privacy and Personal Information in Spain: General Patterns and Case Law Trends
	Diego Álvarez Alonso	163
§7.01	Protection of Employees' Privacy and Personal Information in the Spanish System: General Framework Overview	163
§7.02	Personal Data Management in the Employment Relationship and in the Hiring Process	168
§7.03	Audio-Visual Surveillance in the Workplace	170
§7.04	Control over Employee's Communications (I): General Rules and Traditional Tools	176
§7.05	Control over Employee's Communications (II): E-Mail and Other Internet Messaging Software	177
§7.06	Further Control on Computers and Internet Browsing	181
§7.07	Medical Examinations and Health Data	183
§7.08	Conclusions	185
CHAPTER 8
	Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy in Taiwan
	Shih-Hao Liu	187
§8.01	Introduction	187
	[A] New Tools Change the World	187
	[B] Historical Background of Taiwan	188
§8.02	Regulatory Schemes for Protecting Employees' Personal Information and Privacy	188
	[A] Taiwan's Constitution	189
	[B] International Law	189
	[C] Criminal Code	190
	[1] Offences against Reputation	190
	[2] Offences against Privacy	190

Table of Contents

[D]	Civil Code	191
[E]	Personal Data Protection Act	191
[1]	Coverage of Protection	191
[a]	Personal Data	191
[b]	Special Personal Data	192
[c]	Normal Personal Data	192
[2]	Liability for Damage and Compensation	193
[a]	Liability Doctrine	193
[b]	Compensation Systems	193
[c]	Altruistic Class Action System	193
[3]	Limitations on the Collection, Processing, and Use of Special Personal Data	194
[4]	Limitations on Collecting, Processing, and Using Normal Personal Data	194
[5]	Duty to Inform before Collecting, Processing, or Using Personal Data	195
[F]	Employment Services Act	196
§8.03	Balance between Business Necessity and Employees' Privacy	197
[A]	Exception in Accordance with the Law	197
[1]	Occupational Safety and Health Act	197
[a]	General	197
[b]	Employers' Authority and Attendant Legal Duties	198
[2]	Employers' Right to Refuse Employment and to Transfer or Dismiss Employees	198
[3]	Labour Insurance Act and National Health Insurance Act	199
[4]	Teacher Law	200
[5]	Company Law	200
[B]	Exception for Employers to Fulfil the Legal Obligation	201
[1]	Prevention of Communicable Disease	201
[2]	Indigenous Peoples Employment Rights Protection Act and People with Disabilities Rights Protection Act	201
[C]	Exceptions in the Cases of Employment Contracts or Written Consent Provided by Employees	203
[D]	Clean Work, Clean People?	203
§8.04	Protection of the Privacy of Off-Duty Employees	204
§8.05	Conclusion	205
CHAPTER 9
Protection of Employees' Personal Information and Privacy in English Law
Gillian Morris		207
§9.01	Introduction	207
§9.02	The Regulatory Framework	208
[A]	Human Rights Treaties and Legislation	208
[B]	Data Protection Legislation	211

Table of Contents

[C]	Legislation on the Interception of Communications	214
[D]	Access to Medical Reports	214
[E]	Information about Criminal Offences	215
[F]	Equality Legislation	216
[G]	Common Law	216
§9.03	Obtaining Information and Monitoring Employees: Legitimate Purposes	217
§9.04	Personal Information Protection in the Hiring Process	220
[A]	Criminal Proceedings	220
[B]	Health and Medical Information	221
[C]	Information on Other Matters	222
§9.05	Personal Information and Privacy Protection during the Employment Relationship	224
§9.06	Personal Information and Privacy Protection after the Employment Relation Ends	228
§9.07	Conclusion	229
CHAPTER 10
Privacy as Sphere Autonomy
	Benjamin I. Sachs	233
§10.01	Introduction	233
§10.02	Privacy as Confidentiality	235
§10.03	Privacy as Personal Sovereignty	239
§10.04	Privacy as Sphere Autonomy	243
§10.05	Sphere Autonomy and U.S. Employment Law	245
§10.06	Conclusion	247

<http://www.pbookshop.com>