

Table of Contents

About the Author	vii
Foreword	xv
List of Figures	xvii
List of Tables	xix
List of Abbreviations	xxi
Acknowledgements	xxv
CHAPTER 1
Research Questions, Methodology and Structure of the Study	1
§1.01 Objective of the Study	1
§1.02 Civil Aviation Safety as a Global Concern	2
§1.03 The ICAO Global Aviation Safety Plan	10
§1.04 Towards Regional Cooperation on Civil Aviation Safety	11
§1.05 Research Methodology and Main Sources Used	14
§1.06 Review of the Principal Literature on International Law and Aviation Safety Regulation	16
§1.07 Structure of the Study	17
CHAPTER 2
Towards a Global Aviation Safety Oversight Network: Regional Cooperation on Aviation Safety in the Context of the Chicago Convention	19
§2.01 Introduction	19
§2.02 Strengths and Weaknesses of the Chicago Convention from an Aviation Safety Perspective	20
[A] The Principle of State Sovereignty under the Chicago Convention	22
[B] Implementation of SARPs and Notification of Differences	23
[C] Recognition of Certificates and Licences	30
[1] Certificates and Licences Envisaged under the Chicago Convention	30

Table of Contents

	[2] Recognition of an Air Operator's Certificate	32
	[3] Other Certificates Not Envisaged under the Chicago Convention	34
	[4] International Aviation Safety Agreements	37
	[D] Role of ICAO in Global Safety Oversight	40
	[E] ICAO Enforcement Efforts and Competences	44
§2.03	Lessons Learned from the International Maritime Sector	47
§2.04	ICAO and the Regional Governance of Civil Aviation Safety	53
	[A] Development of ICAO Regional Policy	53
	[B] The 2010 ICAO Policy and Framework for Regional Cooperation	55
	[C] ICAO Views on Regional Aviation Safety Organisations	58
§2.05	Proposal for a Global Aviation Safety Oversight Network	62
§2.06	General Conclusions	64
CHAPTER 3
	Definition and Typology of Regional Aviation Safety Organisations	69
§3.01	Introduction	69
§3.02	The RASO Concept in State and ICAO Practice	69
§3.03	Proposal for the Definition of a RASO	71
§3.04	Typology of Regional Aviation Safety Bodies	73
	[A] Pre-RASO (Type I): Regional Cooperation Projects of a Technical Nature	74
	[1] COSCAPs and Their Transition into RASOs	75
	[2] Regional Cooperation System on Safety Oversight in Latin America	81
	[a] Legal Basis and Organisational Set-Up	81
	[b] Main Safety Functions	81
	[c] Practical Aspects of Implementation	82
	[3] Regional Cooperative Safety Inspector Schemes	83
	[B] Pre-RASO (Type II): A Regional 'Association' of Aviation Safety Authorities	86
	[C] RASO (Type I): Regional International Aviation Safety Organisation	88
	[1] Civil Aviation Authorities of Africa and Madagascar	88
	[a] Legal Basis and Organisational Set-Up	88
	[b] Main Safety Functions	89
	[c] Practical Aspects of Implementation	90
	[2] The Pacific Aviation Safety Office	90
	[a] Legal Basis and Organisational Set-Up	90
	[b] Main Safety Functions	91
	[c] Practical Aspects of Implementation	92
	[3] The Interstate Aviation Committee	94
	[a] Legal Basis and Organisational Set-Up	94
	[b] Main Safety Functions	95

Table of Contents

		[i] The Role of IAC in Aviation Safety Rulemaking	96
		[ii] The Role of IAC in Aviation Safety Certification and Oversight	96
		[iii] The Role of IAC in Air Accident Investigation	97
	[c]	Practical Aspects of Implementation	97
	[4]	The Banjul Accord Group Aviation Safety Oversight Organisation	98
		[a] Legal Basis and Organisational Set-Up	98
		[b] Main Safety Functions	99
		[c] Practical Aspects of Implementation	100
	[5]	Caribbean Aviation Safety and Security Oversight System	101
		[a] Legal Basis and Organisational Set-Up	101
		[b] Main Safety Functions	101
		[c] Practical Aspects of Implementation	102
	[D]	RASO (Type II): A Supranational Aviation Safety Agency	103
		[1] East African Community Civil Aviation Safety, and Security Oversight Agency	104
		[a] Legal Basis and Organisational Set-Up	104
		[b] Main Safety Functions	105
		[c] Practical Aspects of Implementation	106
§3.05		Regional Accident Investigation Organisations	106
	[A]	Introduction	106
	[B]	Establishing a RAIO Legal Framework: Current Examples and Practice	110
		[1] The Interstate Aviation Committee	113
		[2] The Banjul Accord Group Accident Investigation Agency	114
		[3] The European Network of Civil Aviation Safety Investigation Authorities	115
§3.06		Towards a Regional Civil Aviation Authority	117
	[A]	Introduction	117
	[B]	The Eastern Caribbean Civil Aviation Authority	118
		[1] Origins and Evolution	118
		[2] ECCAA Legal and Organisational Status	120
§3.07		General Conclusions	122
CHAPTER 4
The European Aviation Safety Agency: Case Study of a Supranational Aviation Safety Organisation
			127
§4.01		Introduction	127
§4.02		EASA as Part of the EU Civil Aviation Safety System	130
	[A]	Introduction	130
	[B]	The Initial Attempts to Establish EASA in the Form of an International Organisation	131

Table of Contents

	[C] The Benefits of Establishing EASA in the Form of an EU Agency	132
	[D] The Limits of EASA Powers as an EU Agency	133
§4.03	The Role of EASA in International Relations and Its Status under the Chicago Convention	136
	[A] The Question of International Legal Personality of EASA	136
	[B] The Relationship of ‘International Agency’ between EU and Its Member States	139
	[C] Practical Consequences of the Relationship of ‘International Agency’ between EU and Its Member States	144
	[D] Legal Status of EASA under BASA and Working Arrangements	145
§4.04	Contribution of EASA to the Improvement of Global Aviation Safety and Objectives of the Chicago Convention	147
	[A] The EU Aviation Safety Regulatory Process	148
	[1] Benefits and Shortcomings of the EU Aviation Safety Regulatory Process	149
	[2] Compliance of EU Aviation Safety Requirements with Annexes to the Chicago Convention	151
	[B] The Role of the EU System in Certification of Civil Aviation Activities	153
	[1] Implications from the Perspective of the Chicago Convention	155
	[C] The Benefits of the EU System for Oversight and Enforcement	157
	[1] EASA Standardisation and Monitoring Activities	158
	[2] Enforcement Competences of the European Commission	158
	[3] Interaction between EASA Standardisation and Monitoring Activities and ICAO USOAP-CMA	160
	[4] Independent EASA Enforcement Actions	161
§4.05	Association of Non-EU European Countries with EASA	162
	[A] Implementation and Safety Benefits of ‘Article 66 Agreements’	164
§4.06	EASA as a Single Aviation Authority for Europe: Political Fiction or Long-Term Vision?	166
	[A] Milestones towards a European Aviation (Safety) Authority	168
§4.07	General Conclusions	170
CHAPTER 5
	The Functioning and Evolution of Regional Aviation Safety Organisations	175
§5.01	Introduction	175
§5.02	Typology of Delegation Arrangements	176
§5.03	The Functions of RASOs: Setting Up a RASO Using a ‘Tool Box’ Approach	182
§5.04	Main Trends in RASOs Functioning and Evolution	188
	[A] There Is No ‘One Size Fits All’ Approach to RASOs Establishment	188
	[B] RASOs Tend to Evolve into ‘Institutionalised’ Structures	189

Table of Contents

[C]	Efficiencies Stemming from a RASO Should Not Be Taken for Granted	191
[D]	Implications of Institutional Choices for the Functioning of RASOs	194
[E]	RASOs as Part of the Civil Aviation Safety System of Their Member States	196
[1]	Unintended Consequences Related to the Establishment of a RASO	197
§5.05	RASOs as International Actors	199
§5.06	General Conclusions	201
 CHAPTER 6
	Responsibility and Liability of Regional Aviation Safety Organisations and of Their Member States	205
§6.01	Introduction	205
§6.02	The Principle of Legality and Delegation of State Safety Functions in Civil Aviation	206
[A]	Attribution of Competences to Civil Aviation Authorities under Domestic Law	206
[B]	Attribution and Delegation of Civil Aviation State Safety Functions under Public International Law	209
§6.03	The Obligation to Establish Aviation Authorities, as Envisaged in the Chicago Convention and Its Annexes	212
[A]	'State of Registry' and 'State of the Operator' in the Context of Establishing RASOs: Limitations of the Chicago Convention	216
[1]	RASO as a 'State of Registry'	217
[2]	RASO as a 'State of the Operator'	220
§6.04	General Principles of international State Responsibility	223
[A]	Act or Omission Attributable to a State under International Law	223
[B]	Breach of an International Legal Obligation	226
§6.05	International Responsibility of RASOs and Their Member States	228
[A]	Determining International Legal Personality of RASOs	228
[B]	The Substance of RASOs Responsibility under International Law	232
[1]	Preliminary Remarks	232
[2]	Ultimate State Responsibility under the Chicago Convention	233
[C]	Relevance of RASOs Oversight by Its Member States	238
[D]	Parallel Responsibility of RASOs vis-à-vis Non-Member States	240
§6.06	Civil Liability of RASOs for Negligent Safety Oversight under Domestic Law	244
[A]	Introduction	244
[B]	Non-contractual Liability of Civil Aviation Safety Regulators: Review of Case Law	245
[C]	Review of Case Law: Conclusions	247

Table of Contents

[D]	Application of Tort Liability Principles to RASOs	248
[1]	Recognition of RASOs Legal Personality in Domestic Proceedings	248
[2]	Jurisdictional Immunity of RASOs in Domestic Proceedings	249
[3]	Tort Liability Provisions in RASOs Founding Documents	250
§6.07	Assessing the Need for an Amendment of the Chicago Convention	252
§6.08	General Conclusions	254
CHAPTER 7
	Conclusions and Recommendations	261
§7.01	Introduction	261
§7.02	Conclusions and Recommendations with regard to Specific Research Questions	262
§7.03	Recommendations for Further Research	279
APPENDIX
	Core Sample of Organisations Selected for the Study	281
	Selected Bibliography	283
	Index	307