

Survey of Contents

Preface
Acknowledgments
Contents
List of illustrations
Abbreviations

Part One: Anthropology of law in general

Chapter 1: Anthropology of law as a science

- I. Definitions. Issues and tasks. Approaches. Types of Cases.
- II. Anthropology of law as a social science
- III. The anthropological meaning of law
- IV. Legal pluralism
- V. The structure of anthropology: Branches, fields and subfields
- VI. Anthropological systems theory

Chapter 2: History, schools, and names of anthropology of law

- I. The history of anthropology in general and of the anthropology of law in particular
- II. Traditions and schools
- III. Bibliography

Chapter 3: Concepts

- I. Culture and cultures
- II. Society
- III. Civilization. Civilizational stages
- IV. People
- V. Nation. Tribe. Clan. Lineage. Ramage
- VI. Moiety. Phratry
- VII. Extended Family. Nuclear Family. Household. Brotherhood
- VIII. Race. Racism
- IX. Belief System. Religion. Myth
- X. Law. Justice
- XI. Bibliography

Chapter 4: Social norms (the theory of fora: law, morals, customs, etiquette, habits, religious norms, political force, conscience)

- I. Social norms
- II. Kinds of social norms
- III. For a issues
- IV. Bibliography

Chapter 5: Theories of culture and cultures

- I. Structures of cultures
- II. Surveys of culture and cultures. Human Relations Area Files (HRAF). Axial age, modes of thought, and law
- III. Theory of culture and cultures. Cultural anthropology. Cultural time concepts
- IV. Person. Individuality. Identity. Core personality. Vita research
- V. Circles of cultures, based on the "volutions" (neolithic, urban) and on the modes of thought (pre-axial age. Ancient Egyptian; Southeast Asian; Western; Islamic; modern secular totalitarian)
- VI. Acculturation (an enlarged theory)
- VII. Culture change and culture loss
- VIII. Culture transfer, recept transplants, internalization. Legal families
- IX. Anthropologies of borderlands, corridors, trails, and trading routes

- X. Forms of cultural neighborhood (cultural borders, enclaves, ghettos, "melting pots")
- XI. The anthropology of minorities, second and third state peoples
- XII. Migration
- XIII. Cultural justice and cultural rights. Intercultural justice. Tolerance and its paradox
- XIV. Bibliography

Chapter 6: Analyses in cultural anthropology

- I. Ethnocentric analysis. Ethnocentrism and exoticism
- II. "Vision of the participants", fieldwork, and emic-etic analyses (Leiden School of Anthropology)
- III. Componential analysis
- IV. Correlational analysis
- V. Synépeia analysis. The metatheory
- VI. Synépeia analysis compared with other analyses, and a summary
- VII. Bibliography

Chapter 7: Biological anthropology in its relation to the anthropology of law

- I. Relationship between cultural and biological anthropology. Terminology
- II. The mes
- III. A four-function theory of biology for law
- IV. Sense of Justice
- V. Bibliography

Part Two: The subdisciplines of anthropology of law

Chapter 8: Kinship patterns. Other anthropological aspects of family and gender

- I. Short hand kin identification
- II. Concepts of kinship
- III. The six terminological forms of family relationship: Eskimo, Sudanese, Hawaiian, Iroquois, Crow, and Omaha
- IV. A comparative summary
- V. The impact of polygamy on the family systems. Sororate and levirate
- VI. The conflict between peace-seeking and incest avoidance
- VII. Bibliography

Chapter 9: Societal order, personhood, and human rights (the anthropology of constitutional justice)

- I. A system of groupings in behavioral science
- II. Segmentation
- III. Superaddition at work
- IV. Liminality. Rites de passage. Probes of courage, skill and endurance
- Stratification
- V. Anthropological lessons for Europe
- VI. Anthropological lessons for Islam
- VII. An anthropological lesson for the introduction of democracy to a formerly undemocratic country
- VIII. Bibliography

Chapter 10: Reciprocity, exchange, gifts, contracting, trust (the anthropology of commutative justice)

- I. Formalism or substantivism? Two determinisms, the role of empiricism, and a farewell to neoclassics
- II. The present mainstream. Market society, and competition. Anthropologies of giving thanks and of corruption
- III. Bibliography

Chapter 11: Possession, ownership, probate; market and non-market economies; antitrust; cultural property and heritage of mankind (the anthropology of distributive justice)

- I. Nature and nurture of property
- II. Some issues
- III. Inheritance (probate) law
- IV. Environmental law and anthropology. Are animists true guardians? Human stewardship
- V. An anthropology of deceptive goods. Property in market and non-market economies.
- VI. Protection of belonging to a place (places and city-scapes). Homesteading vs. urban sprawl. Hopi-Navajo dispute
- VII. Intellectual cultural property, traditional knowledge.
- VIII. Bibliography

Chapter 12: Torts, crimes, sanctions. Witchcraft and related issues (the anthropology of compensatory or retributive justice)

- I. Sanctions
- II. Internalization
- III. Malinowski and Llewellyn & Hoebel.
- IV. Shame vs. guilt
- V. Tort, contract, or property?
- VI. Witchcraft
- VII. International criminal law
- VIII. Bibliography

Chapter 13: Jurisdiction. Procedure and dispute settlement. Conflicts of law (the anthropology of jurisdictional justice, of procedural justice, and of conflict justice)

- I. Introductory remarks
- II. Conflict of jurisdictions
- III. Appropriate jurisdictions
- IV. Conflict of procedural laws
- V. Substantive laws of procedure
- VI. Conflict of (material) laws. A critique of lex fori in substantive conflict of law
- VII. Force and law. Feud. The youth bulge phenomenon
- VIII. Law as (mere) process: A post-modern view
- IX. Dispute settlement, gacaca, and in India country. Mediation
- X. Bibliography

Part Three: The legal anthropology of ethnic groups, and applied anthropology of law

Chapter 14: Native American law

- I. General remarks on the relation of Part Three to Parts One and Two
- II. Federal and state Indian law = „law for Indians“
- III. A survey of issues relating to the status of Indian tribes
- IV. Tribal sovereignty
- V. Indian tribal law = “law of Indians”
- VI. Dispute settlement institutions
- VII. Indian conflict of laws
- VIII. An Indian law checklist. Indian conflicts-of-law
- IX. Bibliography

Chapter 15: Other ethnic groups. The international law of indigenous peoples. Global human rights

- I. The identification of an ethnic group
- II. Human Relation Area Files (HRAF)

III. Colonialism and decolonization

IV. The international public law of indigenous peoples | Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs)

V. United Nations activities in the area of cultural anthropology

VI. The discussion of worldwide human rights

VII. Bibliography

Chapter 16. Applied anthropology of law

I. Concept

II. Ethical standards

III. Failures

IV. Theoretical areas

V. Problem areas

VI. Bibliography

Postscript: The sense of justice resumed

Literature

List of cases

Subjects and names index

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

Table of Contents

Preface
Acknowledgments
Contents
List of illustrations
Abbreviations

Part One: Anthropology of law in general

Chapter 1: Anthropology of law as a science

- I. Definitions. Issues and tasks. Approaches. Types of Cases.
 1. Anthropology, ethnology, ethnography
 2. Issues
 3. Theory, research and applied anthropology
 4. Two approaches to the anthropology of law
 5. Anthropology of law and morals
 6. Types of cases
- II. Anthropology of law as a social science
 1. The concept of science against the background of the Leibniz-Hume-Kant debate. The scientism problem
 2. History and system. Diachronic, synchronic (de Saussure)
 3. Anthropology and related fields
 4. Anthropological epistemology
 5. Ontology and epistemology
 6. The role of writing
 7. Judgments (=propositions) in anthropology
 8. The nature of anthropological reasoning
 9. Results of Chapter 1 II
- III. The anthropological meaning of law
 1. Issues
 2. Legal and other social norms
 3. Towards an anthropological definition of law
 4. Pospisil's definition of law
 5. A new definition?
 6. Definition of law, summarized
- IV. Legal pluralism
 1. Issues
 2. An incomplete historical sketch of the pluralism discussion so far
 3. Legal pluralism as a consequence of the conflict of laws
 4. Legal pluralism as an issue of sound definition of law, and of cultural identity
- V. The structure of anthropology: Branches, fields and subfields
 1. A division for international usage
 2. The German tradition
 3. A qualitative division for scientific purposes
 4. Segments for teaching anthropology (curricular programs)
 5. The outline used in this book
- VI. Anthropological systems theory

Chapter 2: History, schools, and names of anthropology of law

I. The history of anthropology in general, and of the anthropology of law in particular

1. Precursors
2. Missionaries
3. Adventurers
4. Herder and Klemm
5. German idealism: Kant and Hegel
6. A. and W. von Humboldt
7. German Volkskunde, and a preview of „European Ethnology”

II. Traditions and schools

1. The evolutionists. Diachronic and synchronic research
2. Historical-comparative directions
3. Functionalists and the British-American compromise. Materialists. Ecologists. Structuralists
4. The modern Austrian and Dutch schools
5. Anthropologists of law
6. Marxists. Postmodern anthropology and the „crisis”. Erik Wolf, Sherry Ortner, Marshall Sahlins
7. German Historische Anthropologie
8. Modes of thought, „mind-sets”, „world views”, „mentalities”
9. New developments in Europe. Collections
10. Anthropological Philosophy. Anthropological theology

III. Bibliography

Chapter 3: Concepts

I. Culture and cultures

1. Definition
2. Holistic sense of culture
3. Plurality of cultures. Subcultures. Counterculture
4. Modes of thought
5. Identity and ethnicity

II. Society

III. Civilization. Civilizational stages

IV. People

V. Nation. Tribe. Clan. Lineage. Ramage

VI. Moiety. Phratry

1. Moieties
2. Other cultural dualities. Phratries
3. Moieties as parts of a system of separate powers
4. Moieties as parts of superadditive units

VII. Extended Family. Nuclear Family. Household. Brotherhood

1. Extended family
2. Nuclear family
3. Household
4. Brotherhood

VIII. Race. Racism

IX. Belief System. Religion. Myth

1. Belief systems
2. Make-believe worlds
3. Religion
4. Myth

X. Law. Justice

XI. Bibliography

Chapter 4: Social norms (the theory of for a: law, morals, customs, etiquette, habits, religious norms, political force, conscience)

- I. Social norms
- II. Kinds of social norms
 - 1. Norms of law
 - 2. Ethics, morals, customs
 - 3. Habits, etiquette
 - 4. Religious norms
 - 5. Habits and craft practices of a religious nature
 - 6. Political prescripts
 - 7. Conscience
- III. For a issues
 - 1. Conflicts between for a (examples)
 - 2. Acting in a forum conflict situation
 - 3. The question of a historical pattern Which type of social norm was first?
- IV. Bibliography

Chapter. 5: Theories of culture and cultures

- I. Structures of cultures
 - 1. Overt themes
 - 2. Covert themes
- II. Surveys of culture and culture Human Relations Area Files (HRAF). Axial age, modes of thought, and law
 - 1. "Raw structures"
 - 2. HRAF
 - 3. Pre- and post-axial-age cultures
- III. Theory of culture and cultures. Cultural holism and pluralism. Cultural time concepts
 - 1. Culture
 - 2. Cultures
 - 3. From history to system and return
 - 4. Cultural universals and cultural specificities
 - 5. Time concepts. Aspectivity and perspectivity. Links between time and space
- IV. Person. Individual identity. Culture personality. Vita research
 - 1. Person
 - 2. Identity
 - 3. Culture personality
 - 4. Vita research
- V. Circles of cultures, based on the "two revolutions" (neolithic, urban) and on the modes of thought (pre-axial and axial). Ancient Egypt; Southeast Asian; Western; Islamic modern secular totalitarian
 - 1. The "two revolutions"
 - 2. Pre-axial-age cultures. Inertia
 - 3. (Post-axial age) East and South Asian cultures
 - 4. Post-axial age Tragic Cultures
 - 5. Post-axial age Judaism and Christianity
 - 6. Islam
 - 7. Modern secular-totalitarian cultures
- VI. Acculturation (an enlarged theory)
 - 1. Biculturality

- 2. Coexistence
- 3. Acculturation (classic terminology)
- VII. Culture change and culture loss
 - 1. Culture change defined
 - 2. Restudies. Culture loss
- VIII. Culture transfer, recept, transplants, internalization. Legal families
 - 1. Culture transfer
 - 2. Receptions
 - 3. Internalization
 - 4. Legal families
- IX. Anthropologies of borders, corridors, trails and trading routes
 - 1. Anthropology of borders
 - 2. Anthropology of corridors
 - 3. Anthropology of trails and trading routes
- X. Cultural neighborhood (cultural borders, enclaves, ghettos, 'melting pots')
- XI. The anthropologies of minorities, second and third state peoples
- XII. Migration
- XIII. Cultural justice and dual rights. Intercultural justice. Tolerance and its paradox
- XIV. Bibliography

Chapter 6: Analyses in cultural anthropology

- I. Ethnocentric analysis. Ethnocentrism and exoticism
- II. 'Vision of the participants', folk, and emic-etic analysis (Keyden School of Anthropology)
- III. Componential analysis
- IV. Correlational analysis
 - 1. General description
 - 2. Examples
 - 3. 'The uneasy insight' revisited
- V. Synépeia analysis. The metatheory
 - 1. Consequential thinking within a given culture ('Synepéics I')
 - 2. 'Discovering the other' as beginning of dual thinking ('Synepéics II')
 - 3. Common denominators on a meta-level: Comparing modes of thought ('Synepéics III')
 - 4. Synepéical strategies ('Synepéics IV')
- VI. Synépeia analysis compared with other analyses, and a summary
- VII. Bibliography

Chapter 7: Biological anthropology in its relation to the anthropology of law

- I. Relationship between cultural and biological anthropology. Terminology
- II. Themes
 - 1. A definition of animism. Biological anthropology and DNA research
 - 2. Theories of evolution and behavior
 - 3. Co-evolution. Niche similarity. The symbiology debate
- III. A four-function theory of biology for law
 - 1. Constraining Function I
 - 2. Constraining Function II
 - 3. Liberating Function I

4. Liberating Function II

IV. Sense of Justice

1. Nativism vs. historicism
2. Meier and Bihler
3. The cognitive component. Manfred Rehbinder
4. No society without law
5. No law without an ideal of justice
6. No human beings without cognitive and emotional abilities
7. The sense of justice and the fiction between imposed and internalized law
8. More examples for the sense of justice
9. Aristotelian principles
10. Timely justice
11. The Cheyenne Way

V... The principles of static and dynamic justice and the sense of justice

1. The sense of justice of persons in a legal bureaucracy
2. The critical fiction of the sense of justice
3. Cultural justice

VI. Bibliography

Part Two: The subdisciplines of anthropology of law

Chapter 8: Kinship patterns. Other anthropological aspects of family and gender

I. Shorthand kin identification

II. Concepts of kinship

1. Genealogical table and pedigree
2. Two assistance communities: Orientation and procreation. Nuclear and extended family. Kindred
3. Procreation community
4. Descendency (tradition, orientation) communities
5. Lineage
6. Clans
7. Patterns of residence
8. Patriarchy and matriarchy. Mother right
9. Incest

III. The six terminological forms of family relationship: Eskimo, Sudanese, Hawaiian,

Irquois, Crow, and Omaha

1. The Eskimo system
2. The Sudanese system
3. The Hawaiian system
4. The Irquois system
5. The Crow system
6. The Omaha system

7. An ethnographic test

IV. A comparative summary

V. The impact of polygamy on the family systems. Sororate and levirate

VI. The conflict between incest and incest avoidance

VII. Bibliography

Chapter 9: Societal order, personhood, and human rights (the anthropology of constitutional justice)

- I. A system of groupings in behavioral science
 1. Populations
 2. Parent-offspring aggregates
 3. Sexual bonds
 4. Interspecies associations
 5. Non-familiar space-based social bonds
 6. Social groupings
 7. Application to human groups
- II. Segmentation
 1. Concepts of segmentation, social inertia, and superaddition
 2. Big man societies
 3. Chieftaincies, kingdoms, and queenships
- III. Superaddition at work
 1. Importance for trust, coherence, and legalitarianism. Lingua franca
 2. Role of time. The organizational pattern
 3. He then, not Christian history of superaddition
 4. Philosophical (ontological and epistemological) meanings of superaddition. The case of the Franks. A definition of superaddition.
 5. Superaddition and individuality. Risk
 6. Examples
 7. Additional historical and comparative dimensions
 8. Recent applications of superaddition, instances where it is lacking
 9. Majority rule and human rights
 10. Learnability of superaddition. Correlates
- IV. Liminality Rites de passage. Socialities. Stratification
- V. Anthropological lessons for Europe
 1. A cooperative called Europe
 2. Slavic Chiefdom and the Brezhnev Doctrine
 3. Bipolar and tripolar democracy
- VI. Anthropological lessons for Islam
- VII. An anthropological lesson for the introduction of democracy to a formerly undemocratic country
- VIII. Bibliography

Chapter 10: Reciprocity, exchange, gifts, contracting, trust (the anthropology of commutative justice)

- I. Formalism or substantivism? Two determinisms, the of empiricism, and a farewell to neoclassics
 1. The formalist argument
 2. The substantivist answer
 3. Two determinisms in conflict
 4. The role of empiricism
 5. Where neoclassic economics fail
- II. The present mainstream. Markets, property, and competition. Anthropologies of giving thanks and of corruption
 6. Fund theory and other fundamentals
 7. A discussion
 8. Early trade

9. Economic types and total economies
 10. Personalized vs. impersonalized trade
 11. Kinds of reciprocity
 12. Kinds of competition
 8. Superaddition as prerequisite for the working of the invisible hand
 9. Economic correlates?
 10. Monetary types
 11. Economic spheres
 12. An anthropology of giving thanks. Corruption
 13. Mainstream economic anthropology
 14. An improved outline
 15. The role of antitrust for the rule of law and for economic development
- III. Bibliography

Chapter 11: Possession, ownership, probate; market and non-market economies; antitrust; cultural property and heritage of mankind (the anthropology of distributive justice)

- I. Nature and nurture of property
- II. Some issues
 1. From possession to property?
 2. Property rights?
 3. Property in chattels and in land?
 4. Property in body parts, including genes
- III. Inheritance (probate) law
- IV. Environmental law and anthropology. Are animals guardians? Human stewardship
- V. An anthropology of collective goods and property in market and non-market economies.
 1. Collective goods defined
 2. Kinds of collective goods
 3. Market failures?
 4. Collective goods anti-trust?
 5. Collective goods and location theory
- VI. Protection of belonging to a place (happ and city-scapes). Homesteading vs. urban sprawl. Hopi-Navajo dispute
- VII. Intellectual cultural heritage property and traditional knowledge.
- VIII. Bibliography

Ch.12: Torts, crimes, sanctions. Witchcraft and related issues (the anthropology of compensatory or retributive justice)

- I. Sanctions
- II. Internalization
- III. Malinowski and Llewellyn & Hoebel
- IV. Shame vs. guilt
- V. Tort, contract, or property?
- VI. Witchcraft
 1. The professions
 2. Knowledge as witchcraft
- VII. International criminal law
- VIII. Bibliography

Ch.13: Jurisdiction. Procedure and dispute settlement. Conflicts of law (the anthropology of jurisdictional justice, of procedural justice, and of conflict justice)

I. Introductory remarks

1. Justice and time. Heuristics

2. Maxims

3. Kinds of collisions between legal systems

4. The structure of Chapter 13

5. Aspects of justice

II. Conflict of jurisdictions

III. Appropriate jurisdictions

1. Person

2. Subject matter

3. Territory

IV. Conflict of procedural laws

V. Substantive laws of procedure

VI. Conflict of (material) laws. A critique of lex fori in substantive conflict of law rules

1. Considerations of reasons for conflict-laws rules, especially in Indian country

2. Importance of conflict-of-laws rules

3. Cultural justice and intercultural justice

4. Conflict-of-law reference and gap-filling references

5. A historical sketch (included)

6. The present state. The limitations theory

7. Legislative and judicial jurisdiction

8. A discussion of lex fori exclusivity

9. Practical applications of conflict-of-laws rules in Indian country, and Canby's survey

10. Acoma v. Laguna, and Jim v. CIT

11. Navajo conflict-of-laws rules

12. Pre- vs. post-decree tools of resolving conflict of law involving tribal law: the double meaning of comity

13. Conclusion to conflict-of-laws

VII. Force and law. Feud (Pospisil's graph). The youth bulge phenomenon

VIII. Law as (mere) process: A post-modern view

IX. Dispute settlement, general in Indian country. Mediation

X. Bibliography

Part Three: The legal anthropology of ethnic groups, and applied anthropology of law

Chapter 14: Native American law

I. General remarks on the relation of Part Three to Parts One and Two

II. Federal and state Indian law = „law for Indians“

1. The nature of Indian law. History

2. The sovereignties

III. A survey of issues relating to the status of Indian tribes

1. Foundations

2. A brief timetable of events in “Indian law”

IV. Tribal sovereignty

1. Three fields

2. A presumption?

V. Indian tribal law = “law of Indians”

1. Code and common law
2. Indian social norms
3. Indian country
- VI. Dispute settlement institutions
 1. American judicial system and Indian law
 2. Dispute settlements institutions in Indian country
- VII. Indian conflict of laws
- VIII. An Indian law checklist. Indian conflicts-of-law
- IX. Bibliography

Chapter 15: Other ethnic groups. The international law of indigenous peoples. Global human rights

- I. The identification of an ethnic group
- II. Human Relation Area Files (HRAF)
- III. Colonialism and decolonization
- IV. The international public law of indigenous peoples | Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs)
- V. United Nations activities in the area of cultural anthropology
- VI. The discussion of worldwide human rights
- VII. Bibliography

Chapter 16. Applied anthropology of law

- I. Concept
- II. Ethical standards
- III. Failures
- IV. Theoretical areas
- V. Problem areas
 1. Awareness of ethnocentrism
 2. European issues
 3. Development human rights, and democratization issues
 4. Russian issues
 5. Islamic issues
 6. Ecumenical issues
 7. Tribal issues and issues of legal pluralism
- VI. Bibliography

Postscript: The sense of justice resumed

Literature

List of Cases

Subjects and names index