

Table of Contents

Editors	v
Contributors	vii
Preface	xxi
Introduction Susy Frankel & Daniel Gervais	1
Part I Going Global	13
Chapter 1 Enforcing Intellectual Property Claims Globally When Rights Are Defined Territorially Rochelle C. Dreyfuss	15
1.1 Substantive Approaches to the Territoriality Problem	18
1.1.1 Extraterritorial Application of Local Law	19
1.1.2 Harmonization	21
1.1.3 Criminalization	24
1.1.4 Private Ordering	25
1.2 Procedural Approaches to the Territoriality Problem	27
1.3 Conclusion	36
Chapter 2 An Economy of Scarcity (of Smart Information) Margaret Chon	39
2.1 Introduction	39
2.2 Nobody's Perfect: The Privileged Economic Assumptions of IP	43

2.3	Buyer Beware: The Trust Mechanisms of Global Value Networks	47
2.4	Cognitive Capitalism: Intellectual Property in Global Value Networks	49
2.5	Knowledge Governance: Some Legal Hacks	53
2.6	Conclusion: Information – From Dumb to Smarter?	58

Chapter 3Passing Off, the Internet, and the Global MarketplaceBarbara Lauriat*

		59
3.1	Introduction	59
3.2	The Expanding Tort of Passing Off	61
3.3	Protection of Foreign Traders	65
	3.3.1 Starbucks versus British Sky Broadcasting LLP	73
3.4	Goodwill and Reputation of Foreign Marks in the Common Law World	75
3.5	Domain Names	79
3.6	Conclusion	81

Part IIPublicity Rights for People and Events*83*Chapter 4*The Right of Publicity: A Cautionary Tale from the United StatesStacey L. Dogan*

		85
4.1	The Right of Publicity in the United States	89
4.2	Image, Licensing, and False Endorsement	98
4.3	Conclusion	101

Chapter 5Pictorial Publics, the Visual Internet and Image RightsMegan Richardson & Julian Thomas*

		103
5.1	Introduction	103
5.2	Inventing Tradition	105
5.3	The Internet as an Accumulator of Earlier Traditions	112

Chapter 6Sui Generis Protection for Sporting Emblems and Words: A Triumph of Pragmatism over PrincipleSusan Corbett & Alexandra Sims*

		117
6.1	Introduction	117
6.2	International Protection for the Olympic Brand	119
6.3	Domestic Events Management Laws	121
	6.3.1 Events Management Law in New Zealand	123
	6.3.2 Events Management Laws in Other Jurisdictions	128

6.4	Do Events Management Laws Constitute a Sui Generis Regime?	133
6.5	Protection for Major Events Internationally- Recommendations	136

Part IIISui Generis Rights to Safeguard Culture*139*Chapter 7*Reconciling Tradition and Innovation: Geographical Indications of Origin as Incentives for Local Development and Expressions of a "Good Quality Life"Irene Calboli*

		141
7.1	Introduction	141
7.2	A Necessary Primer on Geographical Indications of Origin: From TRIPS and the Doha Development Agenda to the Multilateral Gridlock and the Rise of FTAs as Discussion Fora	145
7.3	The Still Contested Contours of Geographical Indications as Collective Rights and Incentives for Local Development: Is Sui Generis Protection the Answer?	151
7.4	Addressing Criticism and Proposing Normative Limitations to Safeguard Competition and the Public Interest	157
7.5	The Role of Cultural Differences in the Debate over Geographical Indications of Origin: Is a Reconciliation Possible?	163
7.6	Conclusion	169

Chapter 8Traditional Cultural Heritage and Alternative Means of Regulation: Issues of Access and Restriction OnlineJessica C. Lai*

		171
8.1	Introduction	171
8.2	Alternative Means of Regulation	174
	8.2.1 Industry Codes of Conduct in the Media	174
	8.2.2 Ngā Taonga Sound & Vision	177
	8.2.3 National Library of New Zealand	179
	8.2.4 Te Papa	180
8.3	Alternative Regulation versus Legal Regulation	183
8.4	Following in Copyright Owners' Footsteps?	188
	8.4.1 Technical Protection Measures	190
	8.4.2 Using ISPs	191
	8.4.3 Europe's 'Right to Be Forgotten'	194
8.5	Conclusion	200

Part IV
Beyond Copyright and Patents	203
Chapter 9
Something Completely Different: Europe's Sui Generis Database Right
P. Bernt Hugenholtz	205
9.1 Introduction	205
9.2 History of the Database Right	206
9.2.1 Timeline	206
9.2.2 The Sui Generis Conquers the World – Well, Not Quite	209
9.3 Typology of the Database Right	210
9.3.1 Overview	210
9.3.1.1 Notion of 'Database'	210
9.3.1.2 Substantive Investment	212
9.3.1.3 Scope, Limitations and Duration of Database Right	213
9.3.2 Main Differences from Copyright Protection	215
9.3.3 Legal Nature of the Database Right: National Treatment	217
9.4 Evaluation and Conclusion	221
Chapter 10
Trade Secret Harmonization and the Search for Balance
Sharon K. Sandeen	223
10.1 Introduction	223
10.2 Harmonization and the Limits of US Trade Secret Law and the Trade Secret Directive	226
10.2.1 Definitional Concerns	229
10.2.2 The Scope of Remedies	236
10.2.3 The Third Party Problem	238
10.2.4 Other Limiting Principles	239
10.3 Seeking Balance: Explicit Exceptions in the EU Trade Secret Directive	240
10.3.1 Competition Concerns	241
10.3.2 Employee Mobility Concerns	242
10.3.3 Innovation Concerns	244
10.3.4 Free Expression Concerns	244
10.3.5 Privacy Concerns	245
10.3.6 Regulatory Concerns	246
10.3.7 Procedural and Equitable Concerns	247
10.4 Observations on the Striking the Right Balance	249

Chapter 11
China's Approach to Trade Secrets Protection: Is a Uniform Trade Secrets Law in China Needed?
Ping Xiong	251
11.1 Introduction	251
11.2 Specific Laws in the Protection of Trade Secrets	254
11.2.1 The Legal Framework	254
11.2.2 Features of the Legal Framework	255
11.2.2.1 Lack of Overarching Duty of Confidentiality	255
11.2.2.2 Blurring Line between Trade Secrets and State Secrets	256
11.2.2.2.1 Definition of Trade Secrets	256
11.2.2.2.2 The Issues with the Definition of Trade Secrets Protection and the State Secrets Puzzle	259
11.2.3 Elements to Establish Infringement Are Not Complete	263
11.2.3.1 Infringement under LAUC	263
11.2.3.2 Bona Fide Third Party's Liability	266
11.2.4 Prescriptive Nature of Employee Infringement	267
11.2.4.1 Employee Trade Secrets Infringement	267
11.2.4.1.1 Restrictive Covenants	268
11.2.5 Remedies Are Spread Out in Different Laws	269
11.3 Possible Reforms	273
Part V
The Problems and Opportunities of Enforcement	277
Chapter 12
Enforcement: A Neglected Child in the Intellectual Property Family
Peter K. Yu	279
12.1 Introduction	279
12.2 Four Types of Enforcement Issues	280
12.2.1 Domestic Enforcement	280
12.2.2 Cross-Border Enforcement	281
12.2.3 Enforcement Facilitation	283
12.2.4 Digital Enforcement	286
12.3 Enforcement as a Neglected Child	290
12.3.1 Doctrinal Challenges	291
12.3.2 The Divide between Developed and Developing Countries	292
12.3.3 Historical Neglect	294
12.3.4 Technological Complications	296

Table of Contents

12.4	Integrating Enforcement Back into the Intellectual Property Family	298
12.4.1	Digital Track	298
12.4.2	Global Track	299
12.5	Conclusion	300
Chapter 13
Are New Modes of Criminal and Civil Enforcement a New Form of Intellectual Property?
Reto M. Hilty
13.1	Relevance of Enforcement	303
13.2	Foundation of Enforcement	306
13.3	Categorisation of Enforcement Possibilities	308
13.3.1	Technological Protection Measures	308
13.3.2	Exclusive Legal Protection: Enforcement with Erga Omnes Effect	309
13.3.3	Lacking (Exclusive) Protection: Inter Partes Enforcement	311
13.3.4	Certain Legal Protection: Unclear Enforcement	313
13.3.5	Is There Life outside the Copyright, Patent, and Trademark Regimes?	317
13.4	Enforcement Today	318
13.4.1	Recent Legislative or Judicative Adjustments	318
13.4.2	Changing Behaviors of Right Holders	319
13.4.3	Impacts of Technical Measures and Contracts	322
13.4.4	Role of Third Parties	324
13.5	Consequences and Remedies	325
	Index	327