

Contents

Executive summary

About the authors

Part 1: Strategy and structure

Chapter 1: A slow motion riot: the evolving role of the general counsel and the legal department

By Susan Hackett, CEO, Legal Executive Leadership, LLC

Chapter 2: The general counsel, corporate governance and stakeholder capitalism

By Bruno Cova, partner, Delfino Willkie Farr & Gallagher and Leanne Geale, executive vice president and general counsel, corporate governance and compliance, Nestlé S.A.

Chapter 3: The general counsel's role in leading the digital transformation of legal

By William L Deckelman, Jr, executive vice president and general counsel, DXC Technology Company and Daniel Reed, CEO, UnitedLex

Chapter 4: Legal operations as a competitive advantage

By Hans Albers, director, legal management consulting, Deloitte Legal and Áine Lyons, SVP and deputy general counsel, VMware

Part 2: Leadership skills for the GC

Chapter 5: Leadership behaviors that distinguish great general counsel

By Kenneth J Fredeen, managing partner, ZSA In-House

Chapter 6: Best supporting act: how adaptive legal functions are embracing technology

By Isabel Parker, executive director, The Digital Legal Exchange

Chapter 7: Considerations on doing more with less: leading the lean legal department

By Maja Fabula, deputy general counsel, Tenneco

Chapter 8: Crisis prevention and crisis management in the company – how must the legal and communications departments act together?

By Christian Lawrence, partner, Brunswick

Chapter 9: Workforce management of the future: building virtual teams, hybrid, working and the workforce of the future

By Robert Loef, group general counsel, Best Secret Group AG and Anne Meckbach, chief compliance officer, ProSiebenSat.1 Media SE

Part 3: Adding value and managing change

Chapter 10: Environmental, social, and governance: how the GC and legal function can contribute to sustainability initiatives

By E Leigh Dance, founder and executive director, Global Counsel Leaders

Chapter 11: How to quantify the value creation in legal departments: a bolder approach to show the income side of legal work

By Christoph H Vaagt, managing partner, Law Firm Change Consultants

Chapter 12: Introduction of a case management system: a case study about how to manage change in a legal department

By Wolf-Peter Gross, management consultant, Law Firm Change Consultants